Battery storage uses a chemical process to store electrical energy, which can then be used at a later time. For example, a solar-powered torch stores electrochemical energy during the daylight hours that can be used to provide light at night. In practice, battery storage systems can operate in a number of different ways.

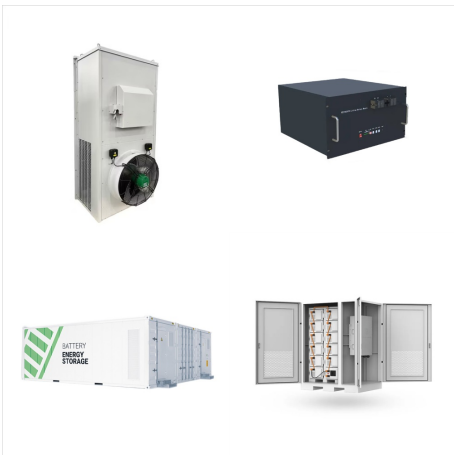

A "Battery-Ready" solar system is a grid-connected setup designed for easy future integration with battery storage. This means specific components, like a compatible inverter, are pre-installed, allowing a seamless upgrade to a "hybrid" system when you're ready to maximise solar self-consumption and gain backup power during outages.
