K 100 battery Did the Odyssey PC 925L battery fit in your K1 with ok room. I have a 1985 BMW K100RS (factory stock) the fit looks too close to call (or order). I tried a westco battery a few years ago, but it was too tall. The 5yo BMW battery is 6-5/8" tall, the max. room is 7" or less before hitting the fuel injector unit box

My K100RS 16v with ABS is happily starting with a 14 Ah Yuasa gel battery (YTX14BS), It has about 180 CCA and needs no more. It is about a quarter of the size and weight of the 1960s technology battery that was fitted to the early Ks.

Starting with a battery that reads 9-10 volts while starting is more amperage through the cables than a battery holding 11-12 volts while starting. I put the trickle charge (Noco with lithium setting) on it about every 3 weeks if bike hasn't been ridden and it goes green (full charge) in under a minute, still, not to be taken as a long term Lithium battery for BMW K1100RS & K1100LT Due to its high output power due to the low internal resistance, this lithium battery starts motorcycles quickly. In addition, it is characterized by -19% VAT for deliveries to NON EU countries!

I'm not sold on a lithium battery, not even close, I'll stay with Odyssey. The lithium produces less power and is adversely effected by cold, e.g. may need to warm battery up by "trying" to start bike a couple of times. Also, the lithium battery requires a specific charger. And let's not forget the lithium battery cost "how much more"!
