

How do I get a cardio power system?

If you are going for a Strength-focused tank character, then I recommend simply equipping the Cardio Power System (+4 Constitution), which you will receive for free after completing the main quest on Mana'an. If your player character is focused on Dexterity, then I highly recommend equipping Canderous with the Cardio Power System.

How do you make Kotor feel good?

Turn your KotOR into the feel good comedy of the year. Mines, and grenades'. With an abundance of these two items you can cheese any fight at any level. I always pick up the CNS strength enhancer from the merchant on Dantooine every playthrough, and 90% of the time it's the belt I wear all the way until the end of the game.

Is force armour better than KOTOR 2?

If you have 12 levels of Jedi at minimum, then there are other more important powers players would rather get compared to Force Armour. Unfortunately, the situation does not really improve in KotOR II, although light side players with powers to spare could consider taking it as the endgame.

Should I equip Canderous with a cardio power system?

If your player character is focused on Dexterity, then I highly recommend equipping Canderous with the Cardio Power System. Dunno about the Dex stuff, I spent all my money on a +5 strength gauntlet (but that was very late into the game).

Somewhat ironically, the only implant with any remote general worth for the main character is actually the Cardio Power System (the +4 CON implant). Everything else is either extremely situational (i.e. skill related), gives something covered by another item or power (making the implant redundant), or the bonus it gives is overkill
