Took the acadia to a dealer and was told that the seals were leaking and that the entire rack and pinion and pump needed replacement at a cost of $1.700. I said I'd wait and went home and complained to gm on the basis that if the rack was leaking and led to pump failure this was a design flaw and the entire system should be covered. GM said no way.

Compare the 2016 Acadia with a like version of the 2016 Ford Explorer (many people recommend Explorer over Acadia). You''ll be amazed. Acadia in the above link has 2 recalls and 43 complaints vs the 7 recalls and 866 complaints for Explorer. Twelve of the Acadia complaints were about steering problems - the Ford had 179.

The quoted price seems a bit high for a p/s pump replacement. It's more in line with the price for replacement of the rack-and-pinion assembly. :shrug: Regardless, the car is out of mileage for any warranty coverage. Not too many folks have reported problems with p/s on the 2014 model. It's unlikely GM will help you with the repair.
