Increase your backcountry charging capabilities with Goal Zero's Nomad 20 Solar Panel. The foldable design is sleek enough to fit easily in your pack and the durable design holds up while hiking and at campsites. The USB and solar outputs give you plenty of charging options and for faster charging, you can chain multiple Goal Zero panels together.

Goal Zero has even made it possible to daisy-chain multiple Nomad solar panels together to increase their productivity, which is again not something you see in many similar products. The Goal Zero Nomad 50 is on the more expensive side when it comes to 50-watt solar panels. But the same thing I said about the Yeti 500X power station applies here.
