The legal system in Morocco operates within a hierarchical framework, composed of various levels of courts that ensure the effective administration of justice. At the base of this structure are the local courts, known as "tribunaux de premi?re instance," which serve as the first point of contact for individuals seeking legal redress.

Faced with growing uncertainty and the frequency of crises (pandemic, Russia-Ukraine war, rising oil prices and inflation), management must equip itself with agile strategic analysis tools. Our teams operate in Morocco and Africa.
