

How do I choose a solar company?

Here's a general outline of what to expect, from choosing a solar company to powering your home with solar energy. Compare quotes and sign a contract with a solar installer. Your installer conducts a site visit, either at your house or virtually. Your installer fills out and submits any required permits and documents and orders your equipment.

Which solar company should I Choose?

Sometimes, bigger is not always better. It's easy to gravitate toward large name-brand companies like Tesla, Sunrun, ADT Solar, or SunPower. But it's small, local solar energy installers that are often the best choice. Local solar companies generally provide more personalized and attentive customer service.

Should you choose a local or a large solar company?

Typically speaking, larger companies are more established and can offer more comprehensive warranties. They may also offer more payment options and maintenance services, such as panel cleaning. On the other hand, local companies are likely to be more familiar with your state's rebates and county permitting requirements.

How do I choose a reliable solar installer?

As a general rule of thumb, a trustworthy installer will use good equipment. So, if a company is already checking all of your boxes, it'll likely check this one off too. When you get a solar quote, do a little research on the panels the installer is using.

How do I know if a solar installer is a good company?

Check the SolarReviews Expert Rating system. We came up with our own metrics for ranking solar installers that include years in business, license, and profitability to rate the best solar companies. The SolarReviews Expert Rating gives you a more well-rounded review of a company than consumer reviews alone.

How do I compare solar companies?

The easiest way to compare solar providers is to create a document that includes the details of each company, all on one page. Using an Excel spreadsheet, a Word document, or a sheet of paper and a pen, compile a list of available solar providers near you. Include both small, local businesses and national companies that service your state.
