

Add the power play wireless charging system to keep your G502 Lightspeed Wireless Mouse and other compatible G mice charged while at rest and at play. Powerplay wireless charging system sold separately; Light speed wireless gaming mouse: Exclusive Logitech G ultra-fast wireless technology used by Pro gamers in competitions worldwide;

I have no interest in the original Powerplay mat a) i want another mat that i already use and b) it's simply way to expensive. Have the G703 that supports POWERPLAY, and i could see the benefit in having a wireless charging station instead of having to swap cables. Anybody know if fx. the following or other 3rd party charging pads works?

Powerplay is a two-part system: the aforementioned mouse pad and then (at the moment) one of two compatible mice to go along with it. Those mice, the G703 and G903, can be used independent of the Powerplay mouse pad, as just your everyday lithium-ion powered wireless mice, complete with a cord you need to periodically plug in for recharging.
