I'm not blaming just him, Lorde got exactly what she wanted from their second album together. 12 tracks, 40 minutes long, and I have maybe heard 5 of them and I only remember Solar Power ???

Solar Power is my favorite album of all time. It came out when I was coming out of a darker place and I come allivveee to that album. I know it's a weird spot with Lorde herself and a lot of fans.. but it means so so much to me.

Love Lorde, pure Heroin and Melodrama are in my top albums of all time. I remember in 2021 when she dropped solar power and I was so excited, gave it a listen and???. I hated it. Just listened to it all the way through again tonight for the first time since then and??? I don't like it still. It seems so, incomplete?

everyone is gonna feel differently about her albums. personally i like melodrama and pure heroine more than solar power. but i still absolutely love solar power. if melodrama is 10/10 than solar power is still 9/10 for me. but again everyone has their own personal connections to lyrics and songs and personal tastes and everyone is going to have different opinions so you definitely ???

I LOVE the chorus (and pre-chorus) of Hold No Grudge but not the verses???? I want to like the whole track but they sound so bland imo, like not even a part of the same song.. 100% agree on The Path though????

The way the email (Ella sent) is formatted makes it really seem like the Solar Power (single) artwork IS the album artwork also but I feel like it's kind of unconfirmed at the same time. So yea lorde it's kinda lazy in that sense lol. Reply reply Top 2% Rank by size . More posts you may like Related Lorde Pop Tom Petty and The

I like Solar Power, even though I don't think it was the best choice for the first single, while Stone at the Nail Saloon was boring, however I really like the lyrics and understood why she

I figure since it's been a couple days and having it on repeat has made people form a more solid opinion of it, what's everyone's top 10 Lorde song overall? SOLAR POWER: The Path and Oceanic

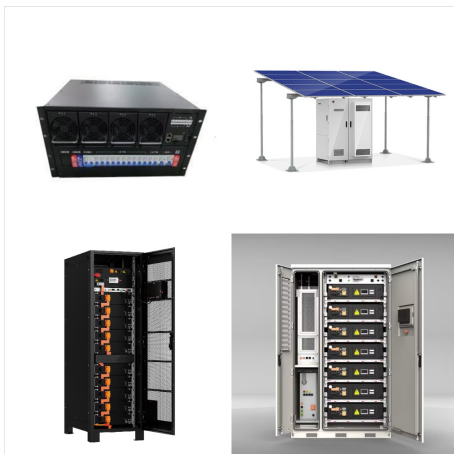

The Path, Solar Power, Mood Ring, Stoned at the Nail Salon, Secrets of a girl, and Fallen Fruit were all songs I enjoyed. I went back and listened to Melodrama and definitely see the difference and how low risk this album is in comparison, but I think if she comes out with another album not too far in the future and goes back to her usual sound

Been a Pure Heroine die hard for 10 years. I dismissed Melodrama and even more so Solar Power when they came out. Wasn't really into them. But recently I've realized my sins. They are both amazing. I still rank PH the highest of all of them, but the other 2 deserve more praise. Especially Solar Power. That's all.

i also want to add, a lot of people won't go to see these artists in concert. especially for example, lorde is doing a smaller tour this time around. and since listening to someone's music daily doesn't make them much, if any money, this is how a casual listener would support them, by purchasing hard copies. in the long run it's not much money for how much xyz artist has given me for Solar Power's just feel generic. Lorde always takes me somewhere: a particular time in my life and something I've experienced, or even somewhere I've never been, or something I've never experienced but longed and yearned to. Solar Power isn't taking me anywhere.

sorry, this is going to mainly focus on negatives but i still love the album! i've always felt like it's both. lots of lyrical genius but usually the production/final product just fell a little flat for me. i get it's a laid back sound, but even for laid back some instrumentals felt boring and almost generic to me. some songs like Solar Power feel like they should get more pop-y and

And that is still how I view the album, but there's more to it than that. She once described having a romantic view of New York City even after being stuck on a subway for four hours, and Solar Power reads to me like that same perspective applied to fame. Solar Power covers a handful of topics pertaining to Lorde and where she currently is in
