If a device is simply powered by solar panels, photosynthesis, or even by a Dyson Sphere, it doesn't quite count as this trope: it generally has to utilize sunlight, solar rays, or nuclear fusion to qualify as the power of the sun.

What are solar dancing toys? The concept is fairly simple. These are toys which use solar energy to move or "dance." To give you a better idea, you can almost compare them to bobble-head toys. Also, like bobble-head toys, most people use these solar powered dancing toys as car ornaments. The reason why is obvious.

The potential for solar energy to be harnessed as solar power is enormous, since about 200,000 times the world's total daily electric-generating capacity is received by Earth every day in the form of solar energy. Unfortunately, though solar energy itself is free, the high cost of its collection, conversion, and storage still limits its exploitation in many places.
