I have talked about our Mastervolt-equipped travel trailer but the same thinking that developed the package for our trailer are the brains behind Thor's Re(Li)able(R) Power Pack Electrical System. This features the same 400 amp-hour battery as we have in our trailer which is built by MasterVolt.

Overall I'm happy with the rig. I think Thor really made some mistakes when it comes to cost optimization and the design and integration of the electrical system, but just as they would be easy fixes for Thor to implement they're easy for an end consumer to implement (except for the electrical system integration).
